This year marks our fortieth anniversary.

To celebrate, we’re opening the book on our past.
Defining Decades

The forty years that tell our story
Our story is filled with plot lines and characters that have helped to interpret our mission and make it reality. Together we’d like to flip through the pages of our history and share the moments that have shaped our today, giving voice to the journey and the people instrumental to its telling.

But what about our future? Does what defined us in 1972 still drive us in 2012? While both the lexicon and faces have evolved, the goal remains resolute — quality health care for all.

As we begin the next chapter, we look to this year’s awardees. Chosen as a reflection of the future health center movement, this year’s recipients have studied the pages that have come before them and are hard at work on a story of their own. They are the new innovators and leaders, well-equipped to take on our future.

We think there is no better way to honor our yesterday, than by looking toward our tomorrow — a blank page, ready to be filled.
This year’s awardees are busy putting our story into words. Some are groundbreakers, key to our first few chapters. The rest, trendsetters, helping us write more history.
