

Making our mark

EQUAL ACCESS

Equal access to quality health care. A lofty goal in 1965. A dream far off — but worth the reach. Columbia Point, Dorchester saw the start of a journey that, fifty years later, continues to make its mark both here in Massachusetts and across the country.

Five decades of initiative, imagination and innovation have etched an indelible path connecting past and future leaders of a movement that continues to shape the health and well being of our communities. The men and women that put their hearts and stamps on the road to reform are in our thoughts, as are the people who will follow that road into what lies ahead.

EQUAL ACCESS

Equal access to quality health care. It's closer now than ever. And while our work is not complete, we all can be proud of what we've accomplished, while still perfecting what we started.

But this year is just a rest stop. Now we look to those, like this year's awardees, for direction — some with their learned experience, others with their new ideas and approaches. Whether part of our history or creating our tomorrow, this year's award recipients are making their own marks.

Ours is a past, present, and future of purpose. And we know our purpose will do well in their hands.
